West Virginia, West Virginia

Written by Justin Peters & Constance

Out of the early morning mist
The mighty hills arise
The sun leaves Rhododendron kissed
With orange clairvoyant skies
White rapids run forever
Through the forest deep with green
Carrying out a destiny
Few have ever seen

West Virginia, West Virginia
Where the eagle flies and the rivers shine
West Virginia, West Virginia
You're a blessing to this life of mine
You're a treasure to this heart of mine

The deer and bear run free and wild
The wind blows through the trees
The Blue Ridge Mountains sing their song
Of life and liberty
The moon shines down deep in the night
Its silent tender beams
Inspiring all who love this land
To go live out their dreams

West Virginia, West Virginia
Where the eagle flies and the rivers shine
West Virginia, West Virginia
You're a blessing to this life of mine
You're a treasure to this heart of mine

An Appalachian wonder
With roots untamed and deep
Where beauty rolls like thunder
Over ridges tall and steep
